New Chaplains for Pershore

On June 26th, at the Churches Together in Pershore Unity Service, held in a rainy Abbey Park, one focus was the FWW supported workplace chaplaincy team. It was a chance to tell the churches of the town more about chaplaincy, and commission two new chaplains—Alma Organ and Emily Miller— and also re-commission the whole team after more than 3 years of faithful ministry in the town.

Commissioning of chaplains by local churches emphasises that chaplaincy is part of the mission of the whole church, undertaken by a few; supported by all.

The full team includes Stuart Sandys (Team Leader), Carol Sandys, Christine Dodd, Cathy Jones, Angela Gerrard, John Podd, David Oldham, and now also Alma and Emily. Please pray for the team and for those they visit at work in the town.

Chaplaincy and the Changing Economy

A morning for all workplace chaplains and anyone interested in how chaplaincy can respond to the new workplace landscape

Tuesday 27th September, 10:00 — 13:00
The Kingfisher Centre, Redditch

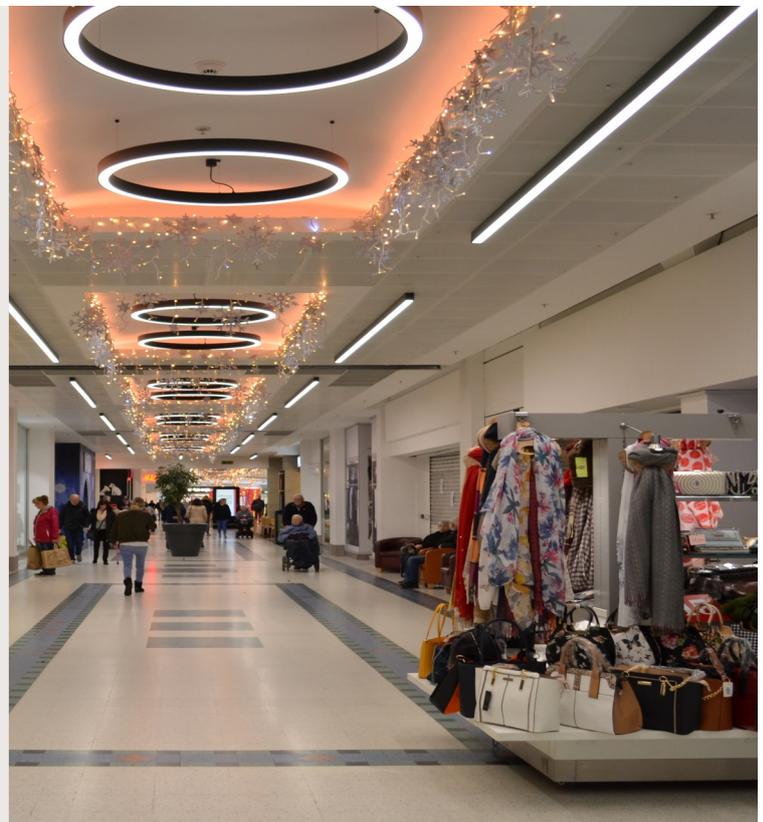

Over recent years there have been massive changes in the way people work, and in the structure of the economy. Brexit, COVID and the impact of the war in Ukraine have made a big impact. As FWW continues to promote and provide chaplaincy, those we visit are welcoming the chance to engage with chaplains to explore what it all means - to them, their work and their business.

This special event, organised by Faith at Work in Worcestershire, with the support of the Kingfisher Shopping Centre, aims to explore the current experience of workers, and chaplains.

The morning will include:

- Visits to a number of businesses in the Kingfisher Centre to meet those who work there and their chaplain
- A key note address by Ken Williams, Manager of the Kingfisher Centre, about the current issues facing his and his tenant's businesses - with Q & A
- A chance to meet and learn from chaplains from other parts of the county and offer one another mutual encouragement
- A time to reflect together on the task of workplace chaplaincy in these changing times
- A buffet lunch to conclude the morning.

For chaplains, trustees, supporters and anyone interested in the Church's mission in the Economy. To book your place call 01905 621 780, or email Alison at comms@faithatwork.co.uk
