Your invitation could just be the start...

As the cost of living crisis is felt acutely by small businesses, the need for workplace chaplains is greater than ever. In response, FWW aims to expand the number of active workplace chaplains we have. Is there someone in your church who could answer this call to mission, by providing just a few hours a month, dedicated to visiting and supporting a few local businesses, and those who work there? If so, please invite them to the Event on the 27th September at the Kingfisher Shopping Centre — see above. It would be a great way to introduce someone to this amazing and rewarding ministry.

Why not also encourage them to discover more by joining the 5-week online Introduction to Workplace Chaplaincy Course which starts on Tuesday 25th October, 7-8:30pm. It is being led by FWW Development Officer Dick Johnson for the national network of chaplains, Workplace Chaplaincy Mission UK. Find out more and register for a place here. And if those dates don't suit please encourage anyone to be in touch with us and register their interest. Dick is always pleased to receive invitations to speak at churches about our work.

Chamber of Commerce

FWW at Expo

FWW will be promoting our work to businesses at the Chamber of Commerce Business Expo at the Three Counties Showground on the 13th October.

We're using this opportunity, through our membership of the Chamber, to try to make contact with new businesses which might welcome a chaplain, in the present economic context, particularly in the manufacturing sector where we currently have few links. Dick and Alison will represent FWW at the stand we are currently preparing. Look out for a report in the next newsletter.
